

I want to keep learning about react and how it interacts with the server. While it's quite frustrating to learn since you get little content done in a large amount of time, it's still very satisfying when it does work.

Since we have a workshop planned for next week I am looking forward to working together on some things that people in the group struggle with, and hopefully be helpful and learn something myself.

My participation in scrum is still limited to participating and doing user stories.

I have been working on the communication between frontend and backend and have now made sure that one part of the frontend sends the data necessary to the server.
